

The contents of our shed are for common use as are our composting bins, produce washing stations, picnic tables and benches. Organic methods for insect control are encouraged.

WELCOME

The Marlboro Community Garden is dedicated to the support of recreational community gardening for residents to grow produce using the best gardening practices. Benefits include preservation of green space and provision of quality produce as residents work collaboratively while sharing information on gardening techniques.

Many Hands - One Heart - One Community

THE BOUNTY OF OUR COMMUNAL HERB GARDEN IS ENJOYED BY ALL

Culturally, our gardeners are as diverse as the languages you can hear in our garden: English, Portuguese, Hindi, Tamil, Chinese, Russian, Hebrew, Italian, French, Spanish.

Not only can you find beautiful flowers, plants and vegetables such as tomatoes, potatoes, lettuce and onions within our plots but upon closer examination you will discover taro, radish pods, palak, artichokes and kohlrabi!

Did you know?

- The land our garden sits on was once a private home.
- Whole Foods Store financed the construction of a fence through a grant submitted by the Marlboro Shade Tree Committee.
- Our garden officially opened on April 26, 2016.
- All produce from our 2 donation gardens is given to local food banks.
- Our gardeners' ages range from 2 to 92.

On any given day you will find volunteers weeding, chipping, raking, composting and harvesting throughout the individual beds.

The Boy Scouts have been instrumental in building our bulletin board, compost bins, washing stations, picnic tables and benches.
